The Leadership Development Series enters it's 4th year and with it, we have compiled 6 new topics to enthuse leaders and ignite curiosity and development.

We have adapted the series to respond to the new way of working, so workshops will be held both face to face and virtually. With a large group of leaders, expertly facilitated by Lucy Barkas of 3WH, leadership expert, best-selling author and podcast host, you will be amongst great company to hear about leadership in 2022 and challenge yourself to level up. This six-part personal leadership programme will focus on topics that leaders, worldwide, are facing in the real world. You will hear theories, case studies, tips and tools that can be utilised instantly. The powerful discussions between members helps deepen the learning and forward the action. These sessions are designed to develop the future leaders of business, help unlock hidden potential in future CEOs and invest in the future of the people at the heart of businesses.

"The Leadership Series has been a great opportunity to refresh my knowledge, collaborate with peers and gain new initiatives to introduce into the business. I highly recommend anyone that has the ability to influence a business to attend."
