Fines for Missing Documents

Under the Employment Rights Act 1996, employers are required to provide their employees with a written statement of particulars. Failure to do so can lead to employment tribunals imposing fines.

Errors in Leave Tracking

Without a clear system in place, tracking staff holiday and sickness can become disorganised. A reliable system ensures time off is recorded accurately, cutting reducing errors and cutting admin time.

Disputes over Unclear Terms

Without clear contracts of employment, mix-ups can escalate into legal disputes over terms and conditions. These cases are not only time-consuming, but can also lead to hefty financial liabilities and damage to company reputation.

Mishandled Expense Claims

Without proper tracking, staff expenses can be misplaced, delayed, or processed incorrectly. A dedicated system helps to streamline the approval and monitoring process, ensuring the claims are handled correctly and efficiently.

Want even greater peace of mind? Boost your service cover with optional Employment Protection Insurance (EPI) - offering up to £150,000 in indemnity and no prospect of success clause.
